WHAT THIS DESKBOOK CONTAINS

Morgan, Lewis & Bockius LLP has prepared this Deskbook as a convenient reference source for our clients. The Deskbook is designed to assist client attorneys who are experts in environmental law and others who are encountering the environmental regulatory framework, or some portions of it, for the first time. A brief description of the types of materials contained in the Deskbook follows.

Environmental Law Overview

To provide an introduction to the general field of environmental practice, the Deskbook includes:

- P Succinct descriptions of all major environmental laws and regulatory programs;
- P Citations to all major environmental laws and regulations.

Easy Reference Regulatory Information

We have included certain information which business people responsible for environmental matters are likely to refer to frequently. This includes:

- P Telephone numbers of EPA regulatory officials and for spill reporting;
- P A calendar of selected regulatory compliance dates;
- P A guide to the Code of Federal Regulations indicating where to find the federal regulations governing a particular matter;
- P Definitions of commonly used acronyms, organized by statute, for quick reference.

Morgan Lewis Resources

Control of costs is a top priority for our clients and for us. Effectiveness in identifying attorneys with in-depth knowledge is a key to success in maintaining control over legal costs. Accordingly, this Deskbook identifies:

- P Types of Matters Morgan Lewis Has Handled in Each Environmental Area – the breadth and diversity of the experience of Morgan Lewis environmental practitioners are indicated in brief descriptions of the types of matters they have handled under each particular statute, as well as in short summaries of each particular lawyer's background;
- P Office Coordinators for specific environmental areas – lawyers who can direct assignments to attorneys with the appropriate capabilities for a particular matter, drawing from the entire group of Morgan Lewis professionals.
- P Office Coordinators for Specific Locations – lawyers in each office who can coordinate new assignments.
